FIFTEEN CENTS

Ice Cream Bandit gets nine months

by GLORIA DAVIS

Antioch's "Ice Cream Bandit," Larry Summers, 37, Chicago, after pleading guilty to a charge of robbery, was sentenced to nine months in the Lake County Jail, four years probation and a $2,000 fine by Judge Emilio Santi.

Summers was charged with robbing the Foods Unlimited Grocery Store in the North Ave. Mall, in Antioch, on Aug. 19.

His accused accomplices in the robbery, his son, Joseph Summers, 18, Dean Miller, 17, and Dianne Crawford, 18, each received four years probation and a $1,000 fine.

The younger Summers and Miller were also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

The prosecutor, Assistant States Atty. James K. Borras, had asked for the court to sentence the elder Summers to the department of corrections for the crime.

Because of a mix-up, Larry Summers was not charged with armed robbery even though he had threatened the victim with a starter gun.

Testimony at the sentencing hearing established that the three men had drank two cases of beer and they and the girl were driving around when Larry Summers suggested that they go to Antioch and rob the gas station that his daughter worked at on North Ave.

On the way they passed a mall in Wildwood where a Bimbo ice cream truck was parked with the engine running. The girl sighted a radio in the truck and suggested that they steal it.

While they were in the process of this they decided to take the entire truck.

The driver, who had run into a store to buy a pack of cigarettes, testified that he immediately quit his job rather than face the wrath of his boss.

Further testimony stated that the gas station was closed when they arrived in Antioch so they decided to rob the grocery store.

Meanwhile, unaware that a robbery was in progress, Antioch Police Officer Robert Lang sighted the truck on his routine rounds, remembered that a report of a stolen ice cream truck had come in and entered the mall to investigate the truck.

This was when the two younger males left the truck and hid behind cars parked in the back of the mall.

Larry Summers came running out of the store as Lang approached, jumped in the truck and, in an attempt to escape, crashed into the cars behind which his two male accomplices were hiding. The girl had gone into the store with Summers.

All were arrested by the Antioch Police at the scene.

Testimony at the hearing stated that all of the robbers were drunk but the girl.

Man found not guilty in ACHS bus theft

by GLORIA DAVIS

Evilio Rivera, 20, one of the group of men who have been accused of stealing an Antioch High School bus in April for a joy ride, was found not guilty by a Lake County jury on Nov. 27.

According to prosecutor, Assistant States' Atty. Vicki Martin, the biggest factor in the state's loss of the case was the fact that one of its main witnesses, Commander Del Ray of the Buffalo Grove Police Dept., failed to appear in court because of a mixup.

The Buffalo Grove Police Dept. did not notify Martin that Del Ray was on vacation until after the jury had been chosen on Nov. 26.

Rivera denied that he had ever seen another witness for the state, Det. Sgt. Chester Iwan of the Lake County Sheriff's Dept.

According to Iwan, Rivera had made a statement that he had been with other men on April 20 when the bus had been stolen. The statement was made in front of Del Ray.

The jury evidently believed Rivera and returned with a unanimous not guilty verdict.

The men were charged when a wallet belonging to one was found in the Bronco that they are accused of stealing from Scott Johnson, 20, of Antioch, when he stopped to help find the bus disabled at Hwy. I-94 in Waukegan.

Frank Liebe, 20, another of the accused who plea bargained for testimony against

Double life sentence

Find Sabin guilty

by GLORIA DAVIS

Following a week-long trial, Dean R. Sabin, 21, Salem, was found guilty of two counts of first degree murder after the jury deliberated for only four hours on Dec. 1.

In sentencing Sabin to two life terms in prison, to be served consecutively, plus 10 years because of the use of weapons, Kenosha County Judge Bruce Schroeder called the double murder of John and Donna Gelden, of Paddock Lake, one of the most heinous crimes to be committed in the area to his recollection.

Schroeder called the verdict just and accused Sabin of being wicked and despicable. As of press time Sabin had started serving his sentence at Waupun Prison.

Sabin himself, denying the Labor Day murders, his grandmother, Margaret Sabin, 79, with whom he lived in Salem, were the chief witnesses for the defense.

Margaret Sabin testified, as she had done at the pre-trial hearings, that she had taken one of the murder weapons, a 22 calibre rifle belonging to her grandson to her daughter's home in Milwaukee a few weeks after her grandson had accidentally shot himself with it. She stated this weeks before the murders were committed.

She also testified that her grandson had been with her the entire day and evening of the murders but she admitted to the possibility of dozing off in the evening.

Kenosha County District Atty. Robert Zapf, who contended that the rifle was taken to Milwaukee after the slayings, put Sabin's father Richard Sabin on the stand. He testified that the grandmother had called him after the murders to ask if a 22 calibre rifle was a small calibre weapon and if a gun and fired shells could be matched.

Zapf is considering pressing perjury charges against the grandmother.

The chief prosecution witness was a ballistics expert that testified that Sabin's rifle definitely fired 13 of the bullets found in Gelden's bodies.

In trying to reconstruct the murder scene Zapf said that Sabin had entered the Gelden home while the owners were outside, probably to steal the rifle that ultimately fired the other bullets that were found in the bodies of the couple.

Zapf said that Donna Gelden was murdered when she reentered the house and discovered Sabin and her husband was fatally shot numerous times a short while later when he came into his home.

Zapf also contended that Sabin's gun was taken to Milwaukee after the murders not before.

Whether or not Sabin's family will appeal the court decision is not known.

School districts face survival test

Time are tough for many small school districts. The twin problems of declining enrollments and losses in revenue have dealt such a blow to some that their survival is in question.

Some observers of the school scene even question whether small districts should survive, and urge that they be consolidated into larger units.

In spite of all this, many small districts will survive, a University of Illinois associate professor told an audience of public school board members and administrators, Nov. 18 in Chicago.

"Many small districts will survive, although most will have to make some changes," Gordon Hoke said. "They will have to move toward new approaches to development rather than waiting for enrollment declines to reverse."

These new approaches could be as diverse as community out-reach, high-tech cooperative endeavors, and teacher sharing, he said.

Not all small districts share the same problems, Hoke noted. The many small districts in Illinois include suburban elementary districts as well as downstate rural districts.

The discussion of small school districts was one of more than 60 panel sessions offered at the Joint Annual Conference of the Illinois Assn. of School Boards, Illinois Assn. of School Administrators, and Illinois Assn. of School Business Officials, held Nov. 17 through 19 in Chicago.

"Small districts should be maintained as long as possible, as long as the quality of education is there," another panelist said.

Joanne Clauss, a former school board member and a sociologist, said a district's chances for survival depend on its community. "If a community is viable and pushes for excellence in its schools, it will be able to maintain them," she said. "If the community is dying and losing its industry, it probably won't."

Haley case in judicial limbo

The U.S. States Attorney's charges against Clem and William Haley in connection with drug trafficking are "floating around in limbo," according to Assistant U. S. Atty. Ira Raefelson of Dan Webb's office in Chicago.

According to Raefelson, all of Clem Haley's motions for denial of the charges have been dismissed and William Haley's is still to come before a federal magistrate in Chicago.

The magistrate that was scheduled to hear William Haley's motions, Carl Sussman, has retired and a new magistrate has yet to be appointed to take over his cases.

Raefelson said that the appointment should come sometime after Dec. 1.

Raefelson added that both brothers should go to trial together if all the pending motions are dismissed.

Meanwhile, Clem Haley is out on bond and William Haley is serving a three to 10 year sentence at the Miami Correctional Center, a federal prison in Florida after being convicted of drug trafficking in Palm Beach County.

The prosecutor for the State of Florida in that case, Jerome Davis, then with the Palm Beach County States' Attorney's office, has since been appointed to the bench as a judge.

The indictments out of Webb's office against William Haley include the charge that he was the head of a large drug ring operating in northern Illinois. If convicted, he will face up to 30 years in prison for continuing criminal enterprise on this charge alone.

Winchells robbed

A 30-year-old Antioch man, Michael Barr, present address Sunset Motel, has been arrested and charged with the armed robbery of the Winchell's Doughnut Shop on Orchard St., at 6:32 p.m., on Nov. 27.

According to Antioch Police Lt. Tom Fisher, a clerk in the store, Michelle Stewart, Lake Villa, said that the man entered the store wearing a brown paper bag with one hole in it over his head.

He pointed an open pocket knife at the cash register, told her to open it and lay down on the floor.

She did as she was told. The man fled with $45 in cash made-up of mainly $1 bills.

Stewart was certain of the amount since she had just made a bank deposit.

Fisher and Sgt. William Kukla, during the investigation of the robbery, found the paper bag in a garbage can at McDonalds.

Kukla sighted a man fitting the general description given by Stewart, wearing a blue grey coat and grey pants, approximately six feet tall and weighing 180 pounds, in G. L. Greedy's Bar, about a block away from the crime scene.

The man was questioned and confronted by the clerk, Fisher said that the money was found on him inside of his sock. He later confessed to the robbery.

At press time he was in the Lake County jail on $50,000 bond, charged with armed robbery, aggravated assault and the unlawful use of a weapon.

County Crime Stoppers has proven successful

Culminating its first six months of operation with the arrest of George W. Davis, the so-called "Autumn Rapist", Lake County Crime Stoppers is making a report to the public about its operation. (Davis is suspected in numerous home invasions and rapes in Lake and McHenry Counties.)

Ronald Hauri, executive director of the crime fighting organization, said that the first six months has been a resounding success.

Through information received and processed by Lake County Crime Stoppers, 130 felony crimes in every area of Lake County, as well as surrounding counties and southern Wisconsin, have been solved.

Six months ago there was a bit of speculation about the ability of a county-wide program to succeed, said Detective Curt Corsi, police coordinator of the program.

"I think that it is obvious by the results and the community response that Lake County Crime Stoppers is here to stay, due to the support of all the citizens of this county," said Corsi.

According to Corsi, $256,775 in stolen property has been recovered as of Oct. 31, and 33 arrests have been made. The board of directors has authorized $5,975 in reward payments to the various callers.

Corsi said that more than 200 persons have called on the Crime Stoppers lines to give information on crimes ranging from vandalism and theft to white-collar crime and murder. Much of the information is currently under investigation by the various law enforcement agencies in Lake County.

"We felt we would do well as a county-wide operation, however, the current level of success is well beyond anyone's expectations," said Esper Petersen of Gurnee, who serves as chairman of the board of directors.

"With the rapidly growing number of successful cases, reward payments have increased tremendously. This has placed an unexpected burden on our reward funds, and we are asking everyone to make donations to the fund in order to meet the expanding demand. We have found that the more success we have, the more calls we receive. The program is still in its infancy, however, we know now that it can work very well in all areas of this county," he added.

Hauri, who took charge of the program in July of this year, said that Lake County Crime Stoppers has taken a creative approach to the standard operational methods employed by Crime Stoppers' programs. For instance, the initiation of category type crimes as a feature for the Crime of the Week.

"Due to the wide spectrum of communities in this county, we need to demonstrate the broad application of Crime Stoppers to all types of criminal activity," he said.

"The selection of Lake County Crime Stoppers by Northwestern University Center for Urban Affairs and Policy Research as one of two programs in the nation to be studied as part of a national evaluation of Crime Stoppers programs is quite an honor," said Hauri.

The credibility of this program has been established not only with the callers and local law enforcement agencies, but also with the educational community.

There are many more progressive projects in the making within this program according to Hauri. "We are limited only by the amount of support we receive from the community," he said.

"Based on the results to date, we feel that Lake County Crime Stoppers has a mandate from the citizens of this county to grow and prosper in its efforts to combat criminal activity," he added.

According to Crime Stoppers International (an umbrella association for local Crime Stoppers programs), Lake County Crime Stoppers ranks in the top-10 programs in the nation in productivity.

Lake County Crime Stoppers is solving one felony crime every seven and one-half hours, and is recovering $263.08 per hour.

The current conviction rate stands at over 94 percent. Compared to the amount of rewards authorized, the rate of return to the community is at better than 98 percent.

Hauri feels that with this high degree of success in such a short time, Lake County Crime Stoppers will become a major force against crime in every community in the country. Many people have adopted a "wait and see" attitude towards this program.

"Now that the county-wide program has a proven track record we are finding that people respond to our requests for information and assistance without hesitation. In short, we have established our credibility with the public," said Hauri.

The future for this program looks very good, and that translates into a great benefit for the citizens of this county.

Detective Corsi noted that several local law enforcement agencies, as well as the Illinois State Police and the North Shore Metropolitan Enforcement Group, have been extremely cooperative and worked very closely with Crime Stoppers in order to conclude some major investigations.

"I have found that Crime Stopper cuts across all jurisdictions and binds the agencies together in a spirit of cooperation on a consistent basis," he said.

Lake County Sheriff Robert Babcox, whose office hosts the program, said he is elated with the results. This demonstrates clearly that the citizens and business community of Lake County are not only concerned about the community, but they are willing to work for improving it.

Hauri indicated that the program owes a debt of gratitude to the participating media for their support. "Without the large amount of publicity we have received the program could not reach the right people. The support by newspapers, radio, and television has been exemplary," he added.

Hauri said that Lake County Crime Stoppers is appealing to all individuals, as well as businesses, civic groups, and corporations to make tax deductible donations to the crime fighting organization.

When I think about it Christmas shopping cost could be much too high

by GLORIA DAVIS

"I have to tell you about something that happened while I was shopping over the weekend that has really bothered me," said the rather distressed woman's voice over the phone.

She proceeded to tell me a true life story that could have been one family's horror story and they don't even know how close they came to living it.

"I was shopping in the K-Mart in Round Lake when I noticed a small child that was unattended wondering around the store," she said.

"A woman, who may have been a Latino, asked the child where 'mother' was," she went on.

The child answered that her mother was in the store shopping. After offering the child candy, the woman suggested, "Let's go home now."

"The child answered, 'no!,' rather loudly and the woman looked up to see me staring at her. She immediately left the store."

The thing that really upset my caller was the nagging feeling that she might have just seen the attempted kidnapping of a child like the many that have been filling the headlines recently.

I am writing this story just to warn parents not to chance buying the saddest Christmas of your life during the harassed hubub of Christmas shopping.

Your children are your most valuable possession. Please do not take any chances! When shopping, try to have more than one adult along to keep an eye on the kids at all times, don't let them out of your sight, not even for a minute. That thought-consuming purchase might cost you too dearly.

It doesn't take a bad parent to lose a child to the many deviates that seem to be roaming about, only a preoccupied one.

Remember the greatest gift you can give to your children is the love of their own family in their own home. Please don't let your guard down for even one minute lest that gift should be put beyond your reach.

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

It seems that Old Annie Mae was too quick to jump on the Chamber's back last week when she bemoaned the fact that part of the Antioch retail section had missed one of the nicest events that has taken place in town in a long time.

The 15 Chamber and Parks Dept. volunteers who spent 80 hours working on the parade certainly deserve a lot of credit.

It seems that the Christmas Parade route was to go through all of downtown Antioch but a mixup came when Santa turned on Toft. Ave. and the rest of the parade followed him instead of proceeding down Orchard St. as had been planned.

Apologies to Don Marski etc., we were just chiding him a bit. Mistakes can be made. Old Annie Mae made one once, or twice, or three times—stop already!

Speaking of downtown Antioch, don't the decorations and the lights put you right into the Christmas spirit! Now a little light snow, only on the sidewalks and yards of course, no one likes snowy slippery streets, and it would really seem "A Lot Like Christmas."

Well there was a few tickets left over from the Sesame St. contest, so Annie Mae took her two grandchildren to see Big Bird, Ernie, Oscar and the gang in person.

It was really cute to see that crowded auditorium full of kids just mesmerized as their favorite TV characters came to life.

And guess who saved the day in this singing and dancing musical, Cookie Monster of course when he ate the contract that would have taken Big Bird away from his home on Sesame St..

Birinda Johnson tells me that the Chain O'Lakes Services is in need of greeting cards of all kinds to send to shut-ins, telecare clients and others who are lonely and in need of tender loving remembrances.

So if you have extras, leave them at the Chain's office at 848 Main St. in the basement of the United Methodist Church in Antioch. For more info call (312) 395-5165.

If you haven't got extras, why not cross off some of those names on your card list that really mean nothing, like your Great Aunt Methusala whom you've never met and who probably is wondering who it is that sends her a card from Wisconsin or Antioch anyway!

For you VFW members, the VFW State Council POW-MIA Remembrance Day will be held on Sunday, Dec. 9, at 7 p.m., at the Sacred Heart Church on Maple and Elizabeth Sts. in Lombard.

This candlelight service is dedicated to our missing servicemen to convey heartfelt sympathies to their families.

The Time Machine

FIFTY YEARS AGO: Dec. 6, 1934

The Antioch Village Board was taking bids on the sewer extension project estimated to cost $5,000.

Those appointed to guard the ballots from the last election, held almost a month before, were wondering who was going to pay them for their 24-hour guard duty that was due to go on pending possible election contests and court decisions.

Some of the guards had been hired by the sheriff of Lake County who then retired. Politicians possibly contesting the vote count were out of money after expensive campaigns.

Mehlan Construction had agreed to gravel the short street adjacent to the village property at the water tower. The construction company was to be paid with village water it would use in highway paving.

The Royal Neighbors Officers Club held a "Backward 500" party where hostesses Mrs. Fred Hamlin, Mrs. C. Hamlin, and Mrs. P. Avery gave prizes to those with the lowest scores.

THIRTY YEARS AGO: Dec. 9, 1974

Harold Cardiff was installed as president of the Antioch Lions Club.

The first snow machine ever to be operated west of New York was put into operation at the Wilmot Ski Hills.

A group of Antioch parents were working industriously building dugouts, press boxes, fences with signs, getting the diamond ready for the coming season and having electricity brought into the refreshment stand at the Little league baseball field in Williams Park.

Mason Manchester of Mc Henry was set to establish a convalescent home at 514 N. Lake St.

Santa Claus and Tato the Clown appeared at Reeves Drugstore to greet Antioch children.

TEN YEARS AGO: Dec. 4, 1974

Ann Lorang won a new car of her choice from any of the local car dealers in the Antioch Lions raffle.

The Antioch News was carrying a weekly political column by Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The Antioch Jaycees were sponsoring a fish fry with the proceeds to go towards park equipment for the new Jensen Park.

Brian Smith was the Antioch Police Chief for a day, Harry Zoll was mayor and John Mitchell was village clerk as the high school classes assumed the roles of village officials.

Illinois deerhunters bagged 10,340 whitetails.

George Jerald Pierce and Willard Pucin were nominated to the United States Air Force Academy and Robert Lawrence Blecke was nominated to the United States Naval Academy by Congressman Robert McClory.

Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, the American tap dancer, held the world's record for running 100 yards backward.

Sequoits lose opener; to face Lake Forest

by MIKE PRAMSHAFFER

The Antioch Boys Varsity Basketball team opened up North Suburban Conference play with a 51-46 loss at the hands of the Mundelein Mustangs.

The Sequoits dug themselves a deep hole in the first quarter, as Mundelein led 16-6 after one period of play and 30-15 at the half.

Antioch made a gallant comeback attempt in the second half, outscoring the Mustangs 31-21, but that wasn't enough.

"We didn't execute on offense in the first half. We were not taking good percentage shots, and we didn't get hardly any offensive rebounds," Don Zeman, Antioch head coach said.

Antioch totaled only four offensive rebounds in the first half.

In the fourth quarter, it looked as if the Sequoits were going to pull the game out as they crept to within two points at 43-41, but the Mustangs held on for the six point victory.

Zeman credited the loss to a "very poor" start, something which the Sequoits have had in each of their four games.

"We were only getting one shot at the basket in the first half. We weren't running the offense," Zeman said.

Zeman did say, however, that he was very pleased with the Sequoits' performance in the second half, especially the third quarter.

"We started running the offense and getting the ball inside," he said.

Seniors Joe Keim and Dave Hart provided 16 of the Sequoits' 18 points in the third quarter.

"Keim and Hart played an exceptional third quarter. They were hustling and going after the ball, something we need more of," Zeman said.

Keim led the Sequoits in scoring with 17 points, while Hart chipped in with 16.

Antioch played without Senior guard Brad Poulter against the Mustangs, who sat out with an ankle injury.

Poulter had started the previous three games for the Sequoits, and Zeman said he'll probably be ready for next weekend's game against Lake Forest.

Antioch committed 14 turnovers against Mundelein, the lowest amount this season.

"We cut down on our turnovers, but I still think we're committing too many," Zeman said.

The loss to Mundelein leaves Antioch with an 0-1 mark in the North Suburban Conference, but the Sequoits will try to even that record against Lake Forest on Friday, Dec. 7 at Antioch.

Zeman expects to see a lot of pressure man-to-man defense from the Scouts, along with some strong rebounding.

"They are a very scrappy team. They use a lot of pressure defense and they're very aggressive on the boards," Zeman said.

Antioch, according to Zeman will probably play a zone defense during most of the Lake Forest game.

"They are just too aggressive to play man-to-man against them. We're going to have to play a scrappy zone defense for the most part," he said.

The Scouts also lost their conference opener, losing 52-51 to Zion-Benton last weekend.

Ask Dr. Sven

by Robert T. Sven B.S.D.D.S.

BLEEDING GUMS

Q. What causes bleeding gums?

A. When the gum lining breaks down, gums bleed and become ulcerated. This may be noticed when you're brushing your teeth, using dental floss or eating fruit, and can usually be stopped if you swing into action quickly enough with good dental hygiene — brushing properly and using all means possible to eliminate plaque.

Some causes of gum bleeding are: plaque collected on teeth and gums; presence of tartar or calculus; lack of Vitamin C; use of unlikely tools such as toothpicks, hairpins, paperclips and fork tines to clean between teeth; improper bite; teeth grinding; pregnancy; and diabetes.

Follow the basic procedures for keeping teeth clean and gums well-stimulated; if bleeding doesn't stop, see your dentist.

Safety check necessary in buying kerosene heaters

Consumers who are planning to buy a kerosene heater for the coming winter should first check state and local building codes and fire ordinances to determine if kerosene heaters are permitted to be used, cautions Barbara Dahl, Lake County home economics adviser. In some communities it may be illegal to sell or use kerosene heaters.

Heaters that meet the voluntary standard's new requirements, which became effective March 15, have additional safety features not necessarily present on heaters manufactured before that date.

Look for these added safety features when purchasing a kerosene heater. These newer model heaters have improved guards or grills that reduce the risk of accidental contact burns.

These new heaters are also equipped with a manual shut-off device, which allows for a quick shut-off during emergency situations such as high flaming in the wick/burning area of the heater.

Also identifiable on the newer heaters are cautionary labels that stress the use of water-clear 1-K kerosene as the "ONLY fuel for the heaters, and "NEVER" gasoline.

Be sure the heater has been tested and approved by a nationally recognized testing laboratory and is correctly sized for the area to be heated, Dahl recommends.

Increasingly, heaters are now being equipped with a positive wick-stop mechanism which prevents the wick from being retracted to a hazardously-low setting. Ask for this important safety feature.

There are a number of safe practices to be followed when using a kerosene heater. The commission urges the following of these safety rules:

1. Use only water-clear 1-K kerosene as fuel for the heater.

2. Always place the heater at least three-feet from combustible materials.

3. Use the heater only in rooms open to the remainder of the house.

4. Do not use the heater in areas where flammable vapors are present, such as around gasoline and some paints and solvents.

5. Set the wick height according to manufacturer's directions. Never turn the wick down low because it may produce very high internal heater temperatures which may pose a fire hazard.

6. Do not let children operate or refuel heaters.

7. Do not leave an operating heater unattended. Never have the heater turned on when sleeping.

8. Do not move, service, or refuel the heater while it is operating or still hot.

9. Refuel the heater outdoors away from flammable materials.

10. Store kerosene away from the living area, preferably outdoors, in a well-marked container, and out of the reach of children.

11. If you have breathing problems, consult a physician before using a kerosene heater.

Anyone already owning a kerosene heater and planning to use it again this heating season, should follow not only the above safety rules, but also these additional ones:

1. Rinse the tank and reservoir with water-clear, 1/K kerosene ONLY, especially if heater is dirty or was stored with fuel in it. NEVER RINSE WITH WATER! DO NOT USE OLD KEROSENE! Return the kerosene used to rinse the heater and any old kerosene to a service station for disposal.

2. Inspect the operation of the wick mechanism and emergency shut-off device to assure that both operate correctly.

3. Inspect the wick for tar deposits. If the wick has hard crusty deposits, it needs to be cleaned or replaced to prevent possible flare up. (Follow the manufacturer's instruction for wick cleaning and replacement.)

4. Replace the ignition glow plug if the filament is broken or badly deformed. Replace batteries if necessary.

5. Check the burner chimney for any carbon deposits and carefully remove any deposits with a rag or brush. Replace damaged or broken chimney components such as wire coils, wire domes, or glass collars.

6. Any other problems with a kerosene heater should be corrected by trained personnel. Check with the dealer for the location of the nearest authorized service center.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll free hotline at 1-800-638-CPSC. A teletypewriter number for the hearing-impaired is 1-800-638-8270.

Archdiocese releases school enrollment data

The combined enrollments of the 423 Archdiocese of Chicago elementary and secondary schools for 1983-84 total 177,330 students, according to statistics released by the Office of Catholic Education. This represents a decrease of 4,325 students, a 2.4 percent drop, since 1983-84.

"Increases, however, at the kindergarten level, and at the ninth grade level would seem to indicate future vitality for the system," noted Sr. Betty Drugan, SHCJ, data consultant.

"Factors such as natural attrition of student-aged populations, rising costs, and the reorganization of a number of elementary schools with the loss of 11 sites may have contributed to the decrease," she added.

Enrollments are up 4.5 percent at the kindergarten level and 2.4 percent at the grade nine level. School reorganizations in which sites were closed occurred in Roseland, the Englewood community, Southeast Chicago, Waukegan, and Bellwood.

The 364 elementary schools in Cook and Lake counties reported registrations of 126,252 students, a drop of 3,600 students, 2.8 percent from last year.

In the city of Chicago, 217 elementary schools reported enrollments of 77,122 students, a loss of 1,894 students, 2.4 percent from last year.

In suburban Cook county, enrollments in the 124 elementary schools totaled 42,091, a drop of 1,659 students, 3.8 percent from last year.

Enrollments in the 23 elementary schools of Lake county totaled 7,039 students, a decline of 47 students, a seven-tenths percent drop from 1983-84.

The 59 secondary schools of the archdiocese registered 51,078 students, a decrease of 725 students or 1.4 percent from 1983-84.

Thirty-eight Catholic high schools in the city of Chicago enrolled 31,729 students, a decline of 468 students, 1.5 percent since last fall.

In suburban Cook county, 18 Catholic high schools registered 17,842 students, a loss of 293, 1.6 percent from last year.

Enrollments in the three Catholic high schools in Lake county total 1,507 students, an increase of 36 students, up 2.4 percent from 1983-84.

WHEN EVERY PENNY COUNTS, IT PAYS TO WATCH FOR THE BARGAINS.

At Northern Illinois Gas, we buy our natural gas from several pipeline companies, who in turn purchase it from producers.

Obviously, we can't control the costs they incur, or the prices they charge.

But there is one thing we can do: make sure we pay as little as possible, for the gas we buy.

And that's exactly what we do.

We keep a close watch on the ever changing prices of gas charged by our suppliers. And we constantly attempt to buy as much gas as possible, from whichever supplier is lowest in price when we're buying. In fact, if we see an opportunity to buy at a really good price, we'll buy more than we need to meet current demand, and put the excess into storage at one of our underground storage sites, for use later on in the season.

This very careful approach to the purchase of natural gas does indeed pay off. It's one of the important reasons why the price our customers pay for their gas has been amongst the lowest in the U.S.

The next time your gas bill arrives in the mail, we hope you'll remember:

We've been watching for the bargains, to make it as low as possible.

ACHS to offer Christmas fest

"A Charles Dickens' Christmas Festival" will be presented by the various divisions of the Fine Arts Dept. of Antioch Community High School at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 15 and at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 16.

The festival will feature costumed strolling carollers, instrumental choirs playing Christmas music, wandering peddlers with various craft items for the last minute Christmas shopper, refreshments — all capped by a production of "A Christmas Carol" performed by the drama division of the Fine Arts Dept.

Ralph Brooke, chairman of the department, is in charge of the strolling singers. John Olisar, instrumental director, will prepare the various instrumental groups. Sara Redd and Suzanne Townes are in charge of the salespeople. Ken Smouse, drama director, will coordinate the production.

The festival is an attempt to break away from the usual Christmas concert situation and offer something which will involve the skills and talents of the entire department.

Tickets will be available from members of the Fine Arts Dept. and at the door at the time of the performance.

Prowler shoots man with own gun, flees

Steven Haley, 23, Antioch, is in Victory Memorial Hospital recovering from a gun shot wound in his left side.

Haley staggered to a phone to call the police after he had been shot by a prowler with his own gun, at 4 a.m., on Nov. 27.

Haley told Lake County Sheriff's deputies that he had been sleeping in his living quarters above Haley's Oasis on Rte. 183 and Loon Lake Rd., south of Antioch, when he was awakened by a prowler.

He went outside carrying a gun to check and the prowler, who was reportedly over six feet tall and weighed approximately 200 pounds, took the gun away from him, shot him with it and then fled reportedly in an orange vehicle.

Haley worked part time at the bar owned by his uncle, Jerry Haley.

He was taken to the hospital by the Antioch rescue squad.

The incident is being investigated by the sheriff's department.

Educators recommend going back to basics

Back to basics, stricter graduation requirements, more math and science, more foreign languages, more homework, plans and recommendations for school reform are proliferating these days.

But few of those plans have much to say about vocational education, and that's a real problem, Merwyn Pilotte, director of the Lake County Area Vocational Center, told an audience of school board members and administrators in Chicago.

"The big problem facing vocational education is back to basics," Pilotte said.

"Students are being required to take more academic subjects and they don't have time for vocational courses."

Pilotte was a member of one of more than 60 panel discussions offered at the Joint Annual Conference of the Illinois Assn. of School Boards, Illinois Assn. of School Administrators, and Illinois Assn. of School Business Officials, held Nov. 16-19.

"And, to some extent," Pilotte said, "we're involved in a conspiracy on the part of colleges and universities. One of the slowest-growing professional opportunities is that of college professor, they need to get students to perpetuate their jobs."

As a result of the emphasis on academics, Pilotte said, "I think students are being improperly counseled. As evidence, he cited U.S. Department of Labor statistics that show 80 to 90 percent of the jobs in the next decade will require less than a four-year degree. There is already a shortage of skilled workers, he noted, for example, the shortage is so acute that Xerox Corp. offers a bounty to employees who recruit new workers.

Gift wrapping to help Cancer Team fight

For the seventh consecutive year, volunteers from the Lake County Unit of the American Cancer Society will wrap gifts for shoppers "with extra love" at Hawthorn Center from Dec. 7-24.

Dedicated volunteers will do a professional job of wrapping holiday gifts for a nominal charge. Their booth is conveniently located near the Lord & Taylor Court on the lower level of the mall.

Proceeds from this special service are tax-deductible, and the volunteers hope that Hawthorn Center Shoppers will make use of the service in order to help with the ongoing fight against cancer.

The booth will be open Monday through Saturday, from noon to 9 p.m., Sunday, from noon to 6 p.m., and Christmas Eve day from noon to 4 p.m.

Gift wrapping is available beginning Friday, Dec. 7 and continues through Dec. 24.

Hawthorn Center is located at Town Line Rd. (Rte. 60) and Milwaukee Ave. (Rte. 21) in the village of Vernon Hills, just south of Libertyville.

Offer Snowmobile Instruction

Beginning snowmobilers will have an opportunity to learn principles of safe snowmobile operation free at a Dept. of Conservation safety education course sponsored by the Antioch Jaycees and Antioch Parks & Recreation, scheduled from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 15 at the State Bank of Antioch.

Under Illinois law, the course is required for youngsters 12 through 16 years old who plan to operate a snowmobile without adult supervision. These individuals must have a Snowmobile Safety Education Certificate, issued by the Conservation Dept. upon successful completion of the course.

The course is an excellent opportunity for young people who need the course to comply with the law. The course also is beneficial for experienced snowmobilers who wish to brush up on their safety habits.

For more information about the course, contact Glenda at Antioch Parks & Recreation at (312) 395-2160. Everyone is advised to bring a sack lunch or money to go out and purchase a lunch.

County health dept. wins on brochure

The Lake County Health Department Environmental Health Division is the recipient of an Education Consolidation and Improvement Act Grant for development of a brochure on water quality. The award was announced by William L. Thompson, regional superintendent of schools, Lake County.

The brochure will be produced for high school students in Lake County. The objectives of this project are to increase the students' knowledge of Lake County aquatic resources, and to promote the resources by highlighting their effects on the environment, economy, and public health.

"There is a need to increase public awareness of the value of our lakes, streams, and wetlands. The quality of our surface waters in Lake County is dependent on the general public's knowledge regarding the importance of our aquatic resources," explained Steven R. Moylan, M.S., aquatic biologist at the Lake County Health Dept. and project coordinator.

"This pamphlet will reach the young people at a time when they are impressionable; and we hope that they will maintain the integrity of these resources throughout their lifetimes," he added.

Business-labor gap narrowing on issues

People who live and work in Illinois are more aware than ever that issues usually labelled "business" concerns are really employment issues, directly affecting their jobs and living standards, according to a statewide opinion survey by the Illinois Alliance for Economic Initiatives.

"Employers around the state have spent a lot of time talking to themselves about the Illinois economy," said Lester W. Brann, president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the Alliance's activities. "This survey was designed to find out how widely those issues were understood outside of the business community," he added.

"WE EXPECTED to find a large gap between business and labor sentiments on most issues," Brann said. "In fact, we found a broad community of interest between employers and employees around the state, focused on one issue: jobs."

The level of business taxes is one area where business and labor opinions might be expected to diverge, Brann said. A series of questions on that issue, however, revealed almost identical views.

Survey results showed that:

About 80 percent of business owners, managers and professionals believed that the level of business taxes influenced hiring decisions in the state, compared with 81 percent of union members.

Of those respondents, 47 percent of business professionals thought business tax levels were a serious problem in Illinois; 48 percent of union members held the same view.

THE POLL found a similar consensus on other so-called "business" issues, including the state's Unemployment Insurance and Workers' Compensation tax levels.

"These are not only technical issues, they also have tended to be political footballs," Brann said. "It is encouraging to see that people are beginning to realize that the factors that influence job growth in the state aren't always the ones that make national headlines."

Just as encouraging, Brann said, was the overall level of optimism about the state's future suggested by the survey results.

When asked about the state's recent economic performance, almost half of both business people (49 percent) and union members (46 percent) felt Illinois was growing at a rate on par with the national average, while an additional 6 percent of business people and 8 percent of union members thought it was growing even faster.

An overwhelming majority in both groups — 86 percent of business people and 71 percent of union members — felt they would enjoy the same or a higher level of job security a year from now as they do today.

"IN FACT, the state's recent economic performance has been very disappointing," Brann said. Over the past decade, Illinois has added only 4,000 people to its payrolls, while the nation as a whole created 18 million new jobs.

"But," Brann said, "that doesn't necessarily make Illinoisans wild-eyed optimists. Instead, they seem to recognize that this state has tremendous strengths and that, while we have been through some tough times lately, Illinois can and will get moving again."

"Employers and employees are on the same wavelength now," he said. "If we can translate that into positive action on a few issues that have been holding the state back, we can start to turn Illinois around."

The Illinois Alliance for Economic Initiatives is a statewide coalition of employers, organizations and individuals, joined by a common concern for improving the state's outlook for job growth, retention and creation. Through a three-year program funded entirely through voluntary contributions, the Alliance is seeking long-term solutions to the issues that affect sustained employment growth.

The findings of the Illinois Alliance for Economic Initiatives' statewide opinion poll are based on 750 telephone interviews with permanent Illinois residents who are heads of households and work outside the home at least 30 hours per week, selected by random-digit dialing.

The state was divided into three areas, representing North, Central and Southern Illinois.

Antioch people involved in Manor's Yule fest

Sunday, Dec. 9 from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. is a day that music and holiday entertainment will fill the air for the residents of the Libertyville Manor Extended Care Facility.

The festivities begin with the arrival of Santa Claus, Mrs. Claus and Twigs, their elfin helper, direct from Hawthorn Center where they are appearing during the holiday season.

They will distribute gifts to over 130 residents of the facility.

The St. Peter's Women's Club and Choir will entertain with holiday carols and encourage the residents to participate in a sing-a-long. Residents and volunteers will also be entertained by polka music, courtesy of Ron and The Antioch Polka Originals.

The Dec. 9 event is being sponsored by Hawthorn Shopping Center, St. Peter's Women's Club, Ben Franklin and King's Drug Store of Antioch, Cedar Village Senior Housing, Ron's Polka Originals of Antioch, Walter Koziol of Modern Home Products and other area citizens.

According to Angela Maras, marketing director of Hawthorn Center and coordinator of the event since its inception, "For the past nine years, a group of concerned citizens have pooled their efforts to bring the residents of the Libertyville Manor Facility a sharing of the joys and festivities of the holiday season. What we are trying to accomplish, is to bring the spirit of Christmas to them and let them know that people care."

The Libertyville Manor Extended Care Facility is located on Rte. 137, one-mile west of Rte. 21 in Libertyville.
